The Candy Project

In the book, Because of Winn-Dixie, Miss Frannie Block told Opal the story about her great-grandfather, Littmus Block.

Littmus went off to fight in the Civil War and came back to find that his family and home were gone forever. From this sad event, Littmus decided that he wanted to make something sweet for the world. He invented a candy called the Litmus Lozenge, which became famous and made Litmus very rich.

While Litmus was making candy, he put all the sorrow that was inside of his body into his candy. Sorrow was his secret ingredient. When people ate his candy, the taste was bittersweet. They tasted the sweetness of the candy, but they also remembered a sad time in their life.

YOUR JOB:

For your Winter Project, you will name and design the wrapper for a brand new candy. Your candy will have a secret ingredient which will cause something unique to happen when people eat it. You will present your candy to the class in a creative way.

Step 1: Name your candy & design your wrapper

Names are important! Your first job is to decide on the best name for your brand new candy and design your candy wrapper. Be creative! Be funny! Use your imagination!

You may use the Hershey's Bar and blank wrapper I gave you, or you may make up your own unique wrapper for your own unique candy.

If you want, you may also actually make your own candy, but you do not have to.

Name of your new candy bar:

Step 2: Secret ingredient & special quality

Write a short paragraph telling about the special ingredient that you put into your candy. Tell about why you put that ingredient into your candy and explain what special thing happens when people eat your candy because of your secret ingredient.
